Introduction

In this A-Z book based on Heal Your Body, I want to share with you one of the reasons I KNOW that disease can be reversed by simply changing mental patterns.

Several years ago, I was diagnosed as having cancer of the vagina. With my background of being raped when I was five years old and being a battered child, it was no wonder I had manifested cancer in the vaginal area. Having already been a teacher of healing for several years, I was very aware that I was now being given a chance to practice on myself and prove what I had been teaching others.

Like anyone who has just been told they have cancer, I went into total panic. And yet I knew that mental healing worked. Being aware that cancer comes from a pattern of deep resentment that is held for a long time, until it literally eats away at the body, I knew I had a lot of mental work to do. I realized that if I had the operation to get rid of the cancer and did not clear the mental pattern that created it, then the doctors would just keep cutting Louise until there was no more Louise to cut. If I had the operation and cleared the mental pattern that was causing the cancer, then the cancer would not return. When cancer or any other illness returns, I do not believe it is because the doctor did not "get it all out," but rather because the patient has made no mental changes and so just recreates the same illness. I also knew if I could clear the mental pattern that created the condition called cancer, I would not need the doctor. So I bargained for time. The doctor grudgingly gave me three months, at the same time warning me that my life was endangered by the delay.

I immediately began to work with my own teacher to clear old patterns of resentment. Up to that time, I had not acknowledged that I harbored deep resentment. We are often so blind to our own patterns. A lot of forgiveness work was in order. The other thing I did was to go to a good nutritionist and completely detoxify my body. So between the mental and physical cleansing, in six months I was able to get the medical profession to agree with what I already knew: I no longer had any form of cancer. I still keep the original lab report as a reminder of how negatively creative I could be.

These days, no matter how dire a person's predicament seems to be, I KNOW that if he or she is WILLING to do the mental work of releasing and forgiving, almost anything can be healed. The word incurable, which is so frightening to so many people, really only means that the particular condition cannot be cured by "outer" methods and that we must GO WITHIN to effect the healing. The condition came from nothing and will go back to nothing.

The Point of Power Is in the Present Moment

The point of power is right here and right now in our own minds. It does not matter how long we have had negative patterns, an illness, a rotten relationship, a lack of finances, or self-hatred; we can begin to make a change today. The thoughts we have held and the words we have repeatedly used have created our life and experiences up to this point. Yet, that is past thinking; we have already done that. What we are choosing to think and say today, this moment, will create tomorrow and the next day and the next week and the next month and the next year. The point of power is always in the present moment. This is where we begin to make changes. What a liberating idea. We can begin to let the old nonsense go. Right now. The smallest beginning will make a difference.

When you were a tiny baby, you were pure joy and love. You knew how important you were; you felt you were the center of the universe. You had such courage, you asked for what you wanted, and you expressed all your feelings openly. You loved yourself totally, every part of your body, including your feces. You knew you were perfect. And that is the truth of your being. All the rest is learned nonsense and can be unlearned.

How often have we said, "That's the way I am," or, "That's the way it is"? What we are really saying is that it is what we "believe to be true for us." Usually what we believe is only someone else's opinion we have accepted and incorporated into our own belief system. It fits in with other things we believe. If we were taught as children that the world is a frightening place, then everything we hear that fits in with that belief, we will accept as true for us. "Don't trust strangers," "Don't go out at night," "People cheat you," etc. On the other hand, if we were taught early in life that the world is a safe and joyous place, then we would believe other things: "Love is everywhere," "People are so friendly," "Money comes to me easily," and so on. Life experiences definitely mirror our beliefs.

We seldom sit down and question our beliefs. For instance, I could ask myself, "Why do I believe it is difficult for me to learn? Is that really true? Is it true for me now? Where did that belief come from? Do I still believe it because a first-grade teacher told me so over and over? Would I be better off if I dropped that belief?"

Stop for a moment and catch your thought. What are you thinking right now? If thoughts shape your life and experiences, would you want this thought to become true for you? If it is a thought of worry or anger or hurt or revenge, how do you think this thought will come back to you? If we want a joyous life, we must think joyous thoughts. Whatever we send out mentally or verbally will come back to us in like form.

Take a little time to listen to the words you say. If you hear yourself saying something three times, write it down. It has become a pattern for you. At the end of a week, look at the list you have made, and you will see how your words fit your experiences. Be willing to change your words and thoughts and watch your life change. The way to control your life is to control your choice of words and thoughts. No one thinks in your mind but you.

Mental Equivalents

The Mental Thought Patterns That Form Our Experiences

Both the good in our lives and the disease are the results of mental thought patterns that form our experiences. We all have many thought patterns that produce good, positive experiences, and these we enjoy. It is the negative thought patterns that produce uncomfortable, unrewarding experiences with which we are concerned. It is our desire to change our disease in life into perfect health.

We have learned that for every effect in our lives, there is a thought pattern that precedes and maintains it. Our consistent thinking patterns create our experiences. Therefore, by changing our thinking patterns, we can change our experiences.

What a joy it was when I first discovered the term metaphysical causations. This describes the power in the words and thoughts that create experiences. This new awareness brought me understanding of the connection between thoughts and the different parts of the body and physical problems. I learned how I had unknowingly created disease in myself and this made a great difference in my life. Now I could stop blaming life and other people for what was wrong in my life and my body. I could now take full responsibility for my own health. Without either reproaching myself or feeling guilty, I began to see how to avoid creating thought patterns of disease in the future.

For example, I could not understand why I repeatedly had problems with a stiff neck. Then I discovered that the neck represented being flexible on issues, being willing to see different sides of a question. I had been a very inflexible person, often refusing to listen to another side of a question out of fear. However, as I became more flexible in my thinking and was more able, with loving understanding, to see another's viewpoint, my neck ceased to bother me. Now, if my neck becomes a bit stiff, I look to see where my thinking is stiff and rigid.

Replacing Old Patterns

In order to permanently eliminate a condition, we must first work to dissolve the mental cause. But most often, since we do not know what the cause is, we find it difficult to know where to begin. So, if you are saying, "If I only knew what was causing this pain," I hope that this book will provide both a clue to finding the causes and a helpful guide for building new thought patterns that will produce health in mind and body.

I have learned that for every condition in our lives, there is a NEED FOR IT. Otherwise, we would not have it. The symptom is only an outer effect. We must go within to dissolve the mental cause. This is why willpower and discipline do not work. They are only battling the outer effect. It is like cutting down the weed instead of getting the root out. So before you begin the new Thought Pattern affirmations, work on the WILLINGNESS TO RELEASE THE NEED for the cigarettes or the headache or the excess weight or whatever. When the need is gone, the outer effect must die. No plant can live if the root is cut away.

The mental thought patterns that cause the most disease in the body are CRITICISM, ANGER, RESENTMENT, and GUILT. For instance, criticism indulged in long enough will often lead to diseases such as arthritis. Anger turns into things that boil and burn and infect the body. Resentment long held festers and eats away at the self and ultimately can lead to tumors and cancer. Guilt always seeks punishment and leads to pain. It is so much easer to release these negative thinking patterns from our minds when we are healthy than to try and dig them out when we are in a state of panic and under the threat of the surgeon's knife.

The following list of mental equivalents has been complied from many years of study, my own work with clients, and my lectures and workshops. It is helpful as a quick-reference guide to the probable mental patterns behind the disease in our body. I offer you this list with love and a desire to share this simple method of helping to heal your body A-Z!

Further Comments

I have learned that children, and animals, too, because they are so open, may be largely influenced by the consciousness of the adults around them. Therefore, when working for children or pets, use the affirmations both for them and for also clearing the consciousness of the parent, teacher, relative, etc., who may be surrounding and influencing them.

Remember, the word metaphysical means to go beyond the physical to the mental cause behind it. As an example, if you came to me with a problem of constipation, I would know you had some sort of belief in limitation and lack and, therefore, were mentally frightened to let go of anything out of fear of not being able to replace it. It could also mean you were holding on to an old, painful memory of the past and would not let go. You might have a fear of letting go of relationships that no longer nourish you, or a job that is unfulfilling, or some possessions that are now unusable. You might even be stingy about money. Your disease would give me many clues to your mental attitude.

I would try to make you understand that a closed fist and a tight attitude cannot take in anything new. I would help you develop more trust in the Universe (the power that supplies your breath) to provide for you so that you could flow with the rhythms of life. I would help you to release your patterns of fear and teach you how to create a new cycle of good experiences by using your mind in a different way. I might ask you to go home and clean out your closets, giving away all the useless stuff to make room for new things. And as you were doing this to say aloud, I am releasing the old and making room for the new." Simple, but effective. And as you began to understand the principle of release and letting go, the constipation, which is a form of gripping and holding on, would take care of itself. The body would freely release that which was no longer useful in a normal way.

Perhaps you have noticed how often I have used the concepts of LOVE, PEACE, JOY, and SELF-APPROVAL. When we can truly live from the loving space of the heart, approving of ourselves and trusting the Divine Power to provide for us, then peace and joy will fill our lives, and illness and uncomfortable experiences will cease to be in our experience. Our goal is to live happy, healthy lives, enjoying our own company. Love dissolves anger, love releases resentment, love dissipates fear, and love creates safety. When you can come from a space of totally loving yourself, then everything in your life must flow with ease and harmony and health and prosperity and joy.

A Good Way to Use This Book When You Have a Physical Problem

- 1. Look up the mental cause. See if this could be true for you. If not, sit quietly and ask yourself, "What could be the thoughts in me that created this?"
- 2. Repeat to yourself (aloud if you can), "I am willing to release the pattern in my consciousness that has created this condition."
- 3. Repeat the new thought pattern to yourself several times.
- 4. Assume that you are already in the process of healing.

Whenever you think of the condition, repeat the steps.

The closing meditation that follows is helpful to read daily, as it creates a healthy consciousness and, therefore, a healthy body.

Loving Treatment

Deep at the Center of My Being, there is an infinite well of love. I now allow this love to flow to the surface. It fills my heat, my body, my mind, my consciousness, my very being, and radiates out from me in all directions and returns to me multiplied. The more I use and give, the more I have to give; the supply is endless. The use of love makes Me Feel Good; it is an expression of my inner joy. I love myself; therefore, I take loving care of my body. I lovingly feed it nourishing foods and beverages, I lovingly groom it and dress it, and my body lovingly responds to me with vibrant health and energy. I love myself; therefore, I provide for myself a comfortable home, one that fills all my needs and is a pleasure to be in. I fill the rooms with the vibration of love so that all who enter, myself included, will feel this love and be nourished by it.

I love myself; therefore, I work at a job that I truly enjoy doing, one that uses my creative talents and abilities, working with and for people whom I love and who love me, and earning a good income. I love myself; therefore, I behave and think in a loving way to all people, for I know that that which I give out returns to me multiplied. I only attract loving people in my world, for they are a mirror of what I am. I love myself; therefore, I forgive and totally release the past and all past experiences, and I am free. I love myself; therefore, I live totally in the now, experiencing each moment as good and knowing that my future is bright and joyous and secure, for I am a beloved child of the universe, and the universe lovingly takes care of me now and forever more. And, so it is.

I love you.

Epilogue

The last major revision of Heal Your Body was in 1988. I still get mail asking for the mental patterns for the latest diseases of the moment; however, I see no reason to add any more patterns.

I've learned that there are really just two mental patterns that contribute to disease: fear and anger. Anger can show up as impatience, irritation, frustration, criticism, resentment, jealousy, or bitterness. These are all thoughts that poison the body. When we release this burden, all the organs in our body begin to function properly. Fear could be tension, anxiety, nervousness, worry, doubt, insecurity, feeling not good enough, or unworthiness. Do you relate to any of this stuff? We must learn to substitute faith for fear if we are to heal.

Faith in what? Faith in life. I believe that we live in a "Yes" Universe. No matter what we choose to believe or think, the Universe always says yes to us. If we think poverty, the Universe says yes to that. If we think prosperity, the Universe says yes to that. So we want to think and believe that we have the right to be healthy, that health is natural to us. The Universe will support and say yes to this belief. Be a "Yes person," and know that you live in a "Yes" world, being responded to by a "Yes" Universe.

If you find yourself with some sort of disease that's not listed in Heal Your Body, become your own investigator and healer. Ask yourself: Is it one of the forms of fear, or is it one of the forms of anger? Are you willing to release those thoughts? Are you willing to replace those thoughts with positive affirmations?" Loving yourself will also contribute greatly to healing your body, for love heals.

So how do you love yourself? First of all, and most of important: Cease all criticism of yourself and others. Accept yourself as you are. Praise yourself as much as you can. Criticism breaks down the inner spirit; praise builds it up. Look into a mirror often, and simply say: I LOVE YOU, I REALLY LOVE YOU. It may be difficult at first, but keep practicing, and soon you will mean and feel what you say. Love yourself as much as you can, and all of life will mirror this love back to you.

—Louise Hay, 2005
